Birth of the Civrii

No Gods had claim over what came of the Feyrii.
No Gods had claim over the creation of the Civrii.
It was unlike anything that came before them;
completely removed from the will and influence of the Gods Above, Below, and that Surround.

Mortaliisi greed and vice are what birthed this new race of Rii.

Atop my skin grew the intimate forests of many. They dispersed throughout the entirety of the land, breaking at the kiss of the Nereidian Oceans or what once was — now the Dsol Deserts. These forests were rich with the flora grown from my flesh and blood, and the fauna that came from my bones.

The keepers of these forests were the Feyrii.

Like all Riisi souls, they were the long line of children of Mortaliis men and Gods. They possessed the gifts of both. The Four Feyrusa: Spring, Summer, Autumn, and Winter, planted their seeds of Riisi throughout the forests and from them grew the Feyrii, their skin greens, browns, oranges, and white with patterns of tree bark.
